

HOOK:

It's that croc! Run!

(The PIRATES, SMEE, and HOOK all run offstage as the CROCODILE follows)

(TIGER LILY enters, examining the ground. She beckons the NATIVES to follow)

TIGER LILY:

Hook and his crew have just been here.

BRAVE SPIRIT:

What are they doing so close to our camp, Tiger Lily? Do you think they want to cause trouble?

TIGER LILY:

Hook and his men always want to cause trouble and they grow bolder each day.

WINTER MOON:

We cannot allow them to continue terrorizing our people.

SOARING HAWK:

What can we do? We are outnumbered.

TIGER LILY:

We know these forests better than anyone. We can use that to our advantage.

WINTER MOON:

What about Peter Pan? We could ask for his help!

SOARING HAWK:

Peter Pan? He's just a boy.

BRAVE SPIRIT:

And he only cares about having fun.

WINTER MOON:

But he has magic, doesn't he? He can fly. Perhaps he could help us in our fight against Captain Hook and his crew.

BRAVE SPIRIT:

Peter Pan is unpredictable. He comes and goes as he pleases, answering only to himself. We cannot rely on him to save us.

WINTER MOON:

But he does have a grudge against Captain Hook. Surely he would want to help us defeat him.

TIGER LILY: (considering it)

Perhaps. As a first step, let's gain intelligence from within Hook's own ship.

SOARING HAWK:

You mean... sneak aboard the Jolly Roger? That's madness! No one has ever ventured so close to Hook's ship and lived to tell the tale.

TIGER LILY:

It's a new moon tonight. The sky will be nearly pitch black. We'll be quick and quiet.

WINTER MOON:

It's risky, but if it means figuring out a way to end Hook's reign of terror, I'm in.

SOARING HAWK:

As am I.

BRAVE SPIRIT:

Let's rid Neverland of its pirate problem!

TIGER LILY:

Then it's settled. We are going tonight!

THE NATIVES:

Yes, Princess.

(ALL exit) (The LOST KIDS enter cautiously)

TOOTLES:

The coast is clear.
